There is Death in the Pot John E. Brown Sr.

When I began this group of studies under the general heading: "THERE IS DEATH IN THE POT", there was no thought in my mind that the talks would be built into a book, but almost from the first address given over our radio station, KGER in Long Beach, requests began to come in, asking for the talks in printed form. Then the realization came that here was a desperate need with little or no intelligent educational effort being made to protect our homes and save our children. Before I had finished this group of messages, the decision came to have our publishing house prepare in book form, fourteen of these special addresses. The facts are that the interest became so general, and so many requests and letters of commendation came pouring in that I continued the series of talks to a total of probably thirty or more messages. Later on, I may publish a second edition of messages dealing with the three agencies which are doing most to destroy our American youth, namely, bad literature, cigarettes and beer. In thinking over the materials I should use in this introduction, I decided to use the most amazing letter I have ever received in my years of public work: a letter that is authentic, verified and terrible. Following the reading of this letter over the air, and the heavy response received from it, I gave the story of the child, begging its mother not to smoke. Many requests came for the printed copies of the baby's appeal. Certainly nothing I could write in this introduction would be so deeply impressive or so far reaching as this literal "voice from the dead" and the "cry of a child"...
